SPORTS RIGHTS CATALOGUE 2023-2024

Eurovision Sport is a division of the European Broadcasting Union (EBU), the world's foremost alliance of public service media. The EBU represents 112 media organizations in 56 countries in Europe, the Middle East and Africa, and have an additional 30 Associates in Asia, Africa, Australasia and the Americas.

We negotiate global sport content on behalf of EBU Members and stakeholders. We manage the media rights for 14 different sports, handling more than 30 different contracts. This represented in 2023 over 190 events, or 44,000 hours of programming. We are committed to sport and all the wider benefits it brings to individuals, communities and society and we believe sport is for everyone. We connect people to sport and sport to the people.

In addition to the Eurovision Sport Acquisition team, the Sales team handles the commercialization of all sports rights not acquired by EBU Members in the acquisition process. Working with an extensive network of broadcast partners in territories across Europe and Worldwide, including China, USA, Japan and Korea, the team specializes in the sale of federations' content across all platforms. We have extensive experience in identifying and developing new broadcast markets for sports and have a proven record in supporting the worldwide growth of sports and generating new audiences.

Our in-depth knowledge of the global broadcast market enables us to innovatively package sports content for international audiences that is tailored to the individual broadcaster's needs, from live action to non-live content such as highlights, clips, athlete interviews and social media content. We also work with broadcasters to produce local language commentary.

OUR PARTNER

Eurovision Sport is proud to represent the European Aquatics events on a worldwide basis. This partnership has been renewed until 2024 and includes remaining events such as the 2024 European Aquatics Championships.

Europeans have shown their strength on the aquatic scene over recent years, and with events such as Water Polo, Long and Short Course Swimming, Diving and Artistic Swimming, these sports offer spectators a chance to enjoy both the physical and artistic sides of aquatic events.

Eurovision Sport also distributes the worldwide rights to the LEN Water Polo Champions League until the 2023/24 season.

WORLD ROWING

Rowing requires focus, perseverance, and teamwork. These qualities are the cornerstones of the sport and are also reflected in our values. The partnership between World Rowing and the Eurovision Sport has been in effect for more than 35 years and Eurovision Sport is pleased to prolong the partnership until 2024 and thus to offer the World Rowing Championships, the European Rowing Championships as well as the World Rowing World Cups to European broadcasters.

The World Rowing Cup is an annual team competition, comprising 3 international regattas in Grand Prix format per year. A World Rowing Cup Champion is allocated in each boat class to the nation with the most points won in that boat class at all 3 regattas.

Tour de France

This annual race is held in France and occasionally has some stages in nearby countries. It consists of 21 stages over a 23-day period (with 2 rest days) starting on a Saturday at the end of June-early July and ends on a Sunday on the prestigious Avenue des Champs Elysées in Paris (with the exception of the 2024 edition to finish for the first time in Nice due to the Paris Olympics).

Each stage requires a unique set of skills and strategies: the mythical “mountainous” stages, the “flat” stages, the “hilly” stages, and the race against the clock in the “time-trial” stages. It is more than a demanding prestigious course and its unique worldwide visibility attracts the best riders of the peloton.

It is also one of the most iconic sports events in the international calendar and the biggest cycling race in the world.

Vuelta a España

The Vuelta a España, known as La Vuelta, is one of the three “Grands Tours” cycling event, together with the Tour de France and the Giro d'Italia. This three-week event is organized annually and consists of 21 stages over a 23-day period (with 2 rest days) starting on a Saturday usually at the end of August and ends on a Sunday. While the route obviously changes every year, the race format remains the same, with a passage through the Pyrenees, Asturias and Cantabrian mountains range and a finish in the Spanish capital, Madrid.

Tour de France Femmes avec Zwift

As with the men's race, the Tour de France Femmes is the most iconic women race in the international calendar. The Tour de France Femmes has met with extraordinary success and enthusiasm, bringing thousands of fans to the roadsides to admire the exploits of the world's best female racers. The women's Tour de France, which saw its first edition in 2022, now counts 8 stages spread over 8 days, with the same four distinct stage profiles as the men's Tour, each requiring a unique set of skills and strategies.

La Vuelta Femenina

Following the recent successes of the Tour de France Femmes and its predecessor the "Ceratitis Challenge", Unipublic has decided to replace the latter with the Vuelta Femenina, first held in 2023, in order to position this event at the highest level of the Women's World Tour as one of the women's "Grand Tours" alongside the Tour de France Femmes and the Giro Donne. The race has been expanded to a 7-day stage race and will cover more than 700km across a full week during which the world's best female riders will battle it out to achieve their dream of winning one of the 3 women's "Grand Tours".

Paris-Nice

One of the historical races of cycling, the Paris-Nice is an 8-day race usually beginning in the middle of March, typically in cold and wintry conditions in center of France before reaching sunshine on the Cote d'Azur. The final stage generally finishes on either the "Promenade des Anglais" in Nice or the "Col d'Eze", a pass on the "Haute Corniche" close to the city.

Volta a Catalunya

Taking place in late March, the Volta of Catalunya is a 7-day stage race organized and a key event in UCI World Tour. The race covers the region of Catalonia in Northeast Spain and contains at least 1 stage in the Pyrenees mountains. The Volta concluded like it traditionally does by finishing in Barcelona on the famous Montjuic climb and park.

Critérium du Dauphiné

It is raced over 8 stages and 8 days starting in the first half of June. Its route passed by several well-known climbs and passes in the Alps where the Tour de France is staged. It makes for the perfect warm up of the Tour de France

CLASSICS

Paris-Roubaix

This 1-day race organized in northern France covers more than 250 kilometers. The Paris-Roubaix is one of cycling's oldest races and is famous for rough terrains and cobblestone roads.

Liège-Bastogne-Liège

Also known as La Doyenne, is a 1-day classic cycling race in Belgium. First ran in 1892, it is the oldest of the 5 "Monuments" of the professional road cycling calendars. It is considered one of the most arduous races in the world because of its length and succession of very steep climbs.

Flèche Wallonne

This 1-day race also organized in the Ardennes region of Belgium is usually held right before Liège-Bastogne-Liège. The unique characteristic of the race is The Mur de Huy with several sections as steep as 26%.

Clasica San Sebastian

This is a 1-day road race organized in the Basque Country. It is considered a race of great prestige and is the most important 1-day race in Spain. The 230-kilometers race is famous for its spectacular views of the coastline as well as the tough Alto de Jaizkibel climb.

Eschborn-Frankfurt

Sometimes referred to as the Frankfurt Grand Prix, this is an annual classic cycling race in Germany, starting in Eschborn and finishing in Frankfurt, held annually on the 1st of May.

Hamburg Cycclassics

This 1-day classic cycling race held every August is a predominantly flat course. It is usually known as a "Sprinters' Classic" as it frequently ends in a bunch of sprints at the finish.

Paris-Tours

Paris-Tours is a French 1-day race, which takes place every October between the suburbs of Paris and the cathedral city of Tours. The traditional race course has been changed since 2018 now incorporating unpaved gravel tracks in vineyards inside the final 60 kilometers.

Paris-Roubaix Femmes

Paris-Roubaix Femmes, which is held annually in April is one of the most exciting races on the calendar for the Women's World Tour. This Women's 1-day race known as "the Hell of the North" was inaugurated in 2021 and saw the best women's racers fight together through the famous rough terrain, mud and cobblestones that are alongside of this race and always offer incredible scenarios. Without doubt, the race is becoming one of UCI Women's most important one-day classics.

Flèche Wallonne Femmes

The Flèche Wallonne Femmes is the oldest of the Ardennes Classics women's races, as the Women's peloton has been competing there since 1998 for the prestigious victory in this 1-day race with a finish on the famous "Mur de Huy", in a one-day race held every year in April.

Liège-Bastogne-Liège Femmes

This is the youngest of the Ardennes Classics women's races, introduced in 2017, but not the less important one. This one-day race, which takes place every April and is part of the Women's World Tour, sees the best female riders battle it out to win one of the three monuments of women's cycling, along with Paris-Roubaix Femmes and the Tour of Flanders for women.

OUR PARTNER

UCI events are big international cycling events, during which we can follow the world's best athletes of each cycling discipline challenging each other with the ultimate goal that all athletes share: to be able to wear the famous rainbow jersey of world champion in the various Cycling disciplines.

The portfolio of events includes the annual UCI World Championships for road, track, mountain bike, cyclo-cross, BMX and urban cycling together with the UCI Cyclo-Cross World Cup and the UCI Track Nations Cup.

The UCI events provide broadcasters with year-round world-class cycling events that appeal to audiences of all ages. For the first time in history, the UCI brought together 13 World Championships in Glasgow and Scotland this summer. From 2023, the UCI Cycling World Championships will be held every 4 years, in each pre-summer Olympic year.

Over several weeks, the host city and/or region will become the cycling capital of the world. Images broadcast worldwide will showcase the region to all corners of the globe.

WORLD CLASS EVENTS DESCRIPTION

UCI ROAD WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

The UCI Road World Championships brings together the world's best cyclists to compete to be UCI World Champions in road race, individual time trial or mixed relay team time trial. Follow the action live as cyclists compete in their country or team's colors for the privilege of wearing the World Champion's rainbow jersey on the roads for the next season.

UCI TRACK WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

In this prestigious event, track cyclists compete in a wide variety of track-cycling disciplines including time trial, individual pursuit, Keirin, team pursuit, points race, scratch, individual sprint, team sprint, omnium, and the Madison. With riders reaching incredible speeds and demonstrating amazing endurance, the UCI Track World Championships are a truly spectacular competition.

UCI CYCLO-CROSS WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

Played out on hilly technical circuits lasting around one hour, cyclocross demands both supreme bike-handling skills and incredible fitness levels. The courses feature a variety of terrain, including pavement, wooded trails, grass, and obstacles, that requires riders to dismount and carry their bikes.

UCI CYCLO-CROSS WORLD CUP

The Telenet UCI Cyclo-Cross World Cup is a season-long competition running from September to January. The series tests not only the fitness and cycling skills of the cyclocross riders but also their consistency as they fight it out for the top spot in 14 events per season.

UCI TRACK NATIONS CUP

The UCI Track Nations Cup is a multi-racetrack-cycling tournament, each round of which takes place in a different country. Riders must perform well in every round to have a chance of winning the title.

UCI MOUNTAIN BIKE WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

The UCI Mountain Bike World Championships include cross-country Olympic and downhill competitions. Cross-country races are held on undulating circuits featuring a variety of natural obstacles. Downhill features a race against the clock, from top to bottom, during which riders negotiate a succession of incredibly complex passages at fast speeds.

UCI BMX RACING WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

The best BMX riders on the planet compete to be the UCI World Champion, beginning from a steep start ramp. Jumps, high speed and daring moves are the DNA of this discipline, which is extremely popular among younger viewers.

UCI URBAN CYCLING WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

The UCI Urban Cycling World Championships comprises 3 different disciplines: BMX freestyle park, freestyle flatland, and trials. Showcasing the urban environment, the event attracts a large number of spectators and is particularly popular with young audiences. One event, 3 disciplines!

IBU BIATHLON

Over the last couple of decades, the explosive growth of biathlon in terms of viewership and popularity has been unique compared to any other Olympic Sport. The unpredictability of results due to the number of potential winners is the key behind this success which has undoubtedly intensified drama and excitement for the viewers.

Touring around Europe from Sweden to Austria down to Italy and up to Norway, IBU events never fail to attract millions of viewers for each of the prestigious World Cup races. The 2024 IBU Biathlon World Championships will be held in Nove Mesto na Morave Czech Republic, while traditional venues such as Antholz, Lenzerheide, Ruhpolding, Oslo, Oberhof, Hochfilzen and Östersund, as well as newcomers on the other side of the Atlantic such as Soldier Hollow and Canmore, will host an IBU World Cup for the 2023/24 season.

Having extended its long-running exclusive media rights partnership with the International Biathlon Union (IBU) as of 2022 until 2026, Eurovision Sport is proud to offer the following events

SKI AUSTRIA

Eurovision Sport represents the Austrian Skiing Federation for the European distribution of all FIS Skiing World Cups hosted in Austria.

The Austrian ski season kicks off on October 28, 2023 in Sölden, with the first event being the women's giant slalom. The world's skiing elite will also meet in Kitzbühel in January 2024 and battle it out on the famous Streiff, one of the most challenging and thrilling courses on the circuit. The prestigious 4 Hills Tournament is also part of this sporting package, with 2 of 4 competitions taking place in Innsbruck and Bischofshofen. This famous event is considered as the highlight of the ski jumping season.

The Ski Austria contract covers 38 competitions per year with an average of 1.5 hours of live coverage from the main competitions, resulting in approximately 55 hours in total.

OUR PARTNER

The FIS Sky Flying World Championships is a thrilling event organized by the International Ski Federation, held every 2 years, appealing to new audiences in search of drama and exciting viewing.

There are only 5 ski flying hills in the world located in: Slovenia, Germany, Austria, Norway and Czech Republic. Unlike ordinary ski jumping, the Ski Flying World Champion is determined after 4 jumps. 40 jumpers qualify for the competition and jump the first round, 10 are eliminated, and the 30 remaining jumpers compete in the last 3 rounds. The athlete with the most points after 4 jumps is named World Champion.

Norway, Germany, Austria, Slovenia, Poland and Japan are the top nations in Ski Flying. France, Italy and the US will be challenging these giants throughout the season.

The Kulm Ski Jumping hill in Bad Mitterndorf (AUT) is considered as one of the four largest Ski Flying hills in the world, where the FIS Ski Flying World Cups regularly take place.

OUR PARTNER

Our agreement with European Gymnastics dates back to almost 35 years, and the story continues to this day. The latest contract which has been extended until 2024 covers all men, women and Team's European Artistic and Rhythmic Championships. This new step forward enables the two organizations to present European gymnastics to future audiences using a multi-platform approach.

Combining technical performance with elegance, finesse and grace, this beautiful sport is widely followed throughout the world.

The Artistic (Men and Women) and Rhythmic European Championships are held annually. An average of 70 hours of footage is distributed on Eurovision's network every year.
